Fund Manager Comment

Market environment

MENA equities, represented by the S&P Pan Arab Composite Large Midcap index gained 4.81% in April. Relative to global markets, Mena Equities outperformed both the MSCI World and EM indices by 2.92% and 5.67% respectively. Global equities recovered from a possible banking crisis however focus shifted to slowing economic growth against a background of a tight monetary policy. Inflation remains stick narrowing the options of global central banks to support economic growth. Commodity complex represented by the Bloomberg Commodity Index shed 1.13% as recession fears gripped the commodity markets. Crude oil shed 0.44% during the month. Key MENA markets were all in the green except Qatar that closed down 2.13%. UAE and Saudi Arabia markets gained 8.68% and 6.10%.

Portfolio performance

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark during the month, attributed by selection effect. UAE markets were the biggest contributors to relative performance while Saudi Arabia was the biggest drag to relative performance. UAE gained 15 bps that were offset by 17 bps from Saudi Arabia. From a sectoral perspective, gains from Real Estate, Telecoms, Energy and Utilities were offset by losses from Materials and Healthcare.

Outlook

Mena markets relative performance to global markets pulled back from intermediate high in mid-2022. We anticipate that the pullback will make a higher lower and reverse back to the upward trajectory established. As the global economy moves to the post covid period, we expect the demand for commodities to pick would favor earnings prospects for Mena markets. Valuations remain undemanding and we expect earnings growth at higher single digit.
