Fund Manager Comment
During Q2, investors had to deal with the tariff scenario as well as the war situation in the Middle East. Neither of the events caused significant damage to all asset classes, including the fixed-income space, as the escalation of both events was calmed down sooner than investors had expected. Though hard data did not show signs of significant weakness during the quarter, caution remains over the upcoming data, as marginal weakness was observed to some extent. The US 10-Year was moved marginally during the quarter, ending at 4.23% from 4.21%. The US Fed held the rates steady during the quarter but indicated uncertain periods forthcoming with expectations of lower growth, higher inflation, and a weaker labor market. The market expects the Fed to react aggressively to growth-related issues, and rate cut bets have increased to about 2-3 times during the last few weeks of Q2. During the Quarter, Brent ended lower at c. USD 67.61 from c. USD 74.74, but it reached as high as USD 79 during the recent Middle Eastern conflict due to expectations over supply disruptions. However, the regional IG and HY space remains favorable to its international counterparts and will continue to attract flows from yield-seeking investors. The QNB Global Sukuk Fund was launched in October 2018 and has distributed thirteen coupon payments. The fund manager continues to seek Sukuk Investments that would add value to the fund in the longer term. We remain below the benchmark duration and will adjust the Fund's duration to benefit from the curve movement over the long term.
